Dalginross--Cowden--Blairinroar--Drummond Castle--Ardoch--Drummond-Ernock. Breathes there a man, with soul so dead, Who never to himself has said-- This is my own, my native land! Whose heart hath ne er within him burned, As home his footsteps he hath turned, From wandering on a foreign strand! If such there breathe, go, mark him well: For him no minstrel raptures swell; High though his titles, proud his name, Boundless his wealth, as wish can claim; Despite those titles, power, and pelf, The wretch concentrated all in self, Living, shall forfeit fair renown, And doubly dying, shall go down To the vile dust, from whence he sprung, Unwept, unhonoured, and unsung. Scott. The tourist leaving Comrie for Blairinroar, after crossing the six-arched bridge of Comrie, reaches Dalginross. It is a pleasant part of the village. A number of handsome villas have been erected of late years,...
