On their way to Matura, our travellers embarked on the lake at Cogel, of which a pleasing description is given. In the neighbourhood of Belligam, half way to Matura, they visited the Cingalese temple of Buddha, called Agnabuddhaganni, and were well received by the priests, who were much gratified with the attention which they bestowed on the sacred images and paintings. These drawings, which are only coloured outlines, without shading, and an enormous statue of Buddha, twenty-eight feet long, and six broad, reclining at full length upon a pe siesta, with the flaps of his ears cut open, are the chief...
